

Empathy map

Electricity is a very important natural resources. It should be saved because it's not at all free. Energy conservation is the effort made by us to reduce the consumption of energy by using less of an energy service or using renewable sources of energy.

Build empathy

The information you add here should be representative of the observations and research you've done about your users.

Share template feedback

